PORTFOLIO

HELLO, I'm Valentina!

As a young child, my grandfather would take me on his tractor to show me how to work in the beautiful hills of the Roero, in the vineyards he owned and loved. This was my early start in a life of wine.

Later I graduated in languages and started to travel the world with an insatiable appetite to see and discover.

I am a Sommelier AIS and WSET2 representing wine producers all over Italy.

CANTINA PEYRANI

The average production per hectare is approximately 3-4 tonnes, which is extremely low considering that the disciplinary regulations for Barbera d'Asti allow up to 9 tonnes per hectare of production. This figure, together with an average age of the vineyards of 60 years allow them to respect their production philosophy.

TENUTA MAZZOLINO

The Braggiotti family planted the roots of the winery's philosophy in the clayey and calcareous soils of Oltrepo' Pavese since 1980. The extreme variety of exposures and soils suggested the subdivision into 39 small plots managed separately. The goal of agronomic management is simply to enhance each of their individual expressions.

The winery was born thanks to the tireless passion of Alfredo Moretti for the land, history and art, who has chosen these lands, fascinated by the history of two families who had owned and cultivated them and by the beauty of vines that cover the Farm of twenty hectares. Today the memory of Bishop Scipione de 'Ricci - who owned the winery in 1500 - lives on the labels of their wines.
